About the RPO Directory

The RPO Directory is intended as a tool for the emerging national network of transportation planners serving rural and small metropolitan regions. Organized by state and organization, the directory lists a planner and executive director for each rural planning organization (RPO). RPOs provide a forum for local input on transportation issues that impact communities with populations below 50,000. This directory includes contacts for formal RPOs as well as regional development organizations that conduct some transportation planning activities without being designated as RPOs. Please email info@nado.org with additions or corrections to the directory.

The National Association of Development Organizations (NADO) provides advocacy, education, networking and research for regional development organizations primarily serving small metropolitan and rural regions.

Founded in 1988, the NADO Research Foundation is the non-profit research affiliate of NADO. The NADO Research Foundation identifies, studies and promotes regional solutions and approaches to improving local prosperity and services through the nationwide network of regional development organizations.

RPO America (Rural Planning Organizations of America), a program affiliate of NADO and the Research Foundation, is the national association for rural transportation planners, providing a clearinghouse of information and professional development for planners in the emerging network of RPOs.

This directory was developed in part with support from the Federal Highway Administration under cooperative agreement DTFH61-05-H-00018. Any opinions, findings and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this publication are those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the views of FHWA.
